Job Title	QSHE Lead
Grade	E4
Salary	£30,000 - £35,000 (dependent on experience)

About Exsel Group

We specialise in the design, manufacturing and support of non-offensive products and services that protect people from the effect of blast, ballistic, cyber and operational threats. We are a progressive and forward-thinking group, who work collaboratively across our internationally based business sectors.

We are seeking a QSHE professional, preferably from a manufacturing background, who is looking to progress and develop in their career.

The role would suit someone with a NEBOSH general certificate (or equivalent) and experience carrying out health and safety, quality and environment audits.

The ideal candidate will be able to demonstrate their experience in health and safety risk management and quality inspection.

Key Responsibilities:

- To lead and coordinate all aspects of QHSE activities across the organisation to promote a positive safety, environmental, sustainable and quality culture ensuring full regulatory compliance in line with best and next practice
- Maintain continuation of ISO9001 certification and to champion ISO 14001 & ISO 45001 best practices.
- To carry out internal audits and root cause analysis.
- To support teams to implement appropriate business improvement projects to improve safety culture, competitiveness, boost productivity, reduce carbon footprint and deliver operational excellence.

Competencies & Experience

- QSHE / H&S professional (ideally with manufacturing / engineering background)
- NEBOSH general cert (or equivalent)
- Have at least a minimum of 3 years post qualification QHSE experience
- Be an excellent negotiator with effective communication
- Be determined to succeed with a positive "Make it Happen" attitude and able to engage with all levels of staff & customers

General

- May be required to travel and work off-site at Exsel or customer/supplier sites
- Ability to work outside core hours occasionally with no restrictions
- The job holder will have a current driving licence
- Must meet security vetting criteria

As an employee of Exsel, you will feel great knowing that you are part of a business that strives to keep premises, staff and clients safe. We are also committed to NET ZERO/carbon neutrality and dedicated to our Social Values.
